Hi Flick,

Could you make a record of the enclosure identified by Toby – see email below.

Hi Martin

Not to worry; it's an easy mistake to make.

However, the LiDAR does reveal a previously unrecorded oval earthwork enclosure adjacent to the DAT record for a standing stone at Garreg Wen PRN 8059 – I've marked its position on the attached

Best wishes

Toby

Subject: 14 quarry pits

Hi,
sorry to bother you again so soon, but I know you are keen on quarry pits. This line is going north from Caerlleon farm, W of Meidrim. I wasn't even looking for it.

Also at the top of the run is what looks like a whole messy area of quarrying. Genuine article?

I have never come across as much name evidence as there is in this area E of Llanboidy as far as Caerlleon: sarn field names, sarn properties and of course plenty of 'bank' names, though those have to be discounted if there are any natural hills or gorge banks. But earthworks are rare. M
