

The hollow at the centre of this round barrow seems to be still used as an area for clumping and burning of rubbish.

The barrow is now enclosed by a ring of large boulders on the south and east sides joining with the tracks on the north and west sides - 10-15 m out from the barrow.

Isaac Nov. 1982

Barrow still in a good state of preservation, although severe damage has been done to its centre, with a large depression cut into it. Traces of a recent fire & rubbish can still be seen.

NO SIGNS OF RECENT DISTURBANCE APPARENT
NO TRACES OF RUBBISH OR FIRES.
