

COMMENT

AUTHORITY

1. A displaced block, tip snapped off, lying on the W side of a patch of rough pasture covered with field cleared stones. On the upper surface of this there is an engraving which would appear to be of a figure wearing a dress and a belt (?mediaeval). The head of the figure has been removed with the tip of the stone.

Burke C 1988

No trace of this decorated stone could be found although the heap of field cleared stones was located.

K Murphy, July 1988