Fenton, 548. Arch. Camb. III, v, 334; IV, xiv, 342. Historical Sketch of Newport, 10.

Large rounded mound, partly natural;
 perhaps a ringwork, and probably only raised at the beginning of XIII. Little is left of curtains, but remains of three round towers (one very large) and a twin-towered gatehouse of late XIII.
 (Successor to Nevean).
