

Standing stone now recumbent
Lying at the edge of a Pasture
Field

AS MAULL
JAN 1984

"A stone standing above ground to the height of 10 feet, in a field called 'Parc Garreg Lwyd'. It is 68" broad and 18" thick at the base, and has a somewhat pointed end. Its flat side faces north."

RCAHM Carm. Inv. 1917
No. 466, p. 160

"a recumbent slab, eleven feet in length, 68" wide, and 22" thick..... it was upright, but since that date the ^{land} owner has tried to dig beneath the maen hir..... It is reported that nothing was discovered by this onslaught of the foundations"

Francis Jones TCASEC 1931
Vol. 23, p. 32

The stone has been recumbent since some time between 1913 and 1931, the position from RCAHM coordinates seems to be the same position as the OS mark on the 1964 6" OS map SN43NW
