Bathesland

Site of Church 2806

All that remains is an orientated depression. There were anciently two chapels of ease to Roch church; one was at Hilton, and this was probably the other, although Fenton (p. 144) states that St. Caradoc's Chapel on the beach was the second. Church Hill is called "in le Wood" Patent Rolls, 4, Cas I, para. 6. For this ancient forest here see Owen's Pembrokeshire I, 248.
