— 15 No. 6 Longhouse Castell Coch 2848

— The neck of land, which is about 95 ft across, has been strongly — fortified. An enemy attacking from the mainland would have to cross — over 107 ft of fortifications. Traces of 4 ditches and 3 ramparts
— can be seen. The ditch next the mainland is 6 ft deep and 15 ft
— wide. It was cut through the rock. The side next the mainland is — almost perpendicular. The ramparts are much worn; the middle one is — the highest, about 6 ft. There seems to have been a large cavern
— high above the sea on the promontory where the cliff has now fallen — in.
