

88 No. 6

Angle

Church

3091

In the churchyard is the foundation of an old cross, also a small chapel known as the Seaman's Chapel, which seems to be older than the church; in it is a recumbent figure with palms together, much time worn. For account of church see Fenton, 401; Arch. Camb. IV, xi, 342.