Mentioned by Fenton & Elphinstone under
Henry Owen (who called it PALTOCK'S INN).

43 No. 11

Poll Tax Inn

Old Hostelry

Fenton, p. 356, says that this was so called because the collectors of the poll tax met here, but it is a corruption of PALTOCK'S INN which meant a house of low resort. See Owen's Pembrokeshire I, 494
