

COMMENT

AUTHORITY

Fenton (1) definitely associates the burial with the probable dark age cemetery 2836. Lewis (2) suggests there may have been a confusion of the 2 sites, + seems to imply that the "Sword burial" was a BA extended? dagger burial.
See also comment 2836

(1) Fenton. Historical tour thro' Pembro.

(2) Welsh Antiquity 1976

— 33 No. 9

Park-y-Fynwent

Tumulus

7568

— Fenton (Pembrokeshire, p. 36) with a disregard of accuracy states
— that this tumulus is at Trevigan. A stone coffin and a sword were — found in this tumulus in 1800.