

Small cottage, $8.8\text{m} \times 4.9\text{m}$, with walls mostly constructed of clay on a stone plinth with some sections rebuilt with brick - especially the front. The two chimneys at either end are constructed of brick. Thatched roof covered over by zinc sheets.

The inside has been converted into a byre.

According to Mr Griffiths, Pant y Dderi it was originally a single room cottage with a crog left.
