

Karl-James Langford

FSAScot (Fellow of the Society of Scottish Antiquaries)

MLitt Archaeology (UHI)

PGDip Archaeology and Heritage (Leics)

07437 747402

karljangford@hotmail.com

1 Canon Street

Barry

Vale of Glamorgan

CF62 7BB

These field notes are to be used for publication or in anyform you may see fit, to benefit academic research. But I am the author (Karl-James Langford).

These notes have not been published in anyform until this was dispatched by my assistant. They have not been made available in a digital format, you may do so, with my permission in the benefit of Archaeological research.

Karl-James Langford FSAScot

2024

ARCHAEOLOGICAL REPORT

St. Ina's Church
South East of New Quay
Ceredigion
North West of Llanina House SN40412 59827

North West of the St. Ina's Church and Llanina House at the high tide mark; above boulder clay, previously two pieces of human bone were recorded by Karl-James Langford. On this instant one piece of semi-diagnostic pottery was located.

The location of the artefact was due to erosion from the subsoil above the boulder clay eroding into the sea.

Detail of artefacts

The wheel-thrown form of pottery is similar to Thetford-type ware. However the matrix and interior is of a grey fabric with a burnish light buff/orange on the exterior. The artefact was produced in a reduced kiln without glaze indicating a semi localised fine ware. The semi-diagnostic artefact is that of a base, with indications of a finger mark baluster. The artefact is plough worn. Provisional date 1300s.

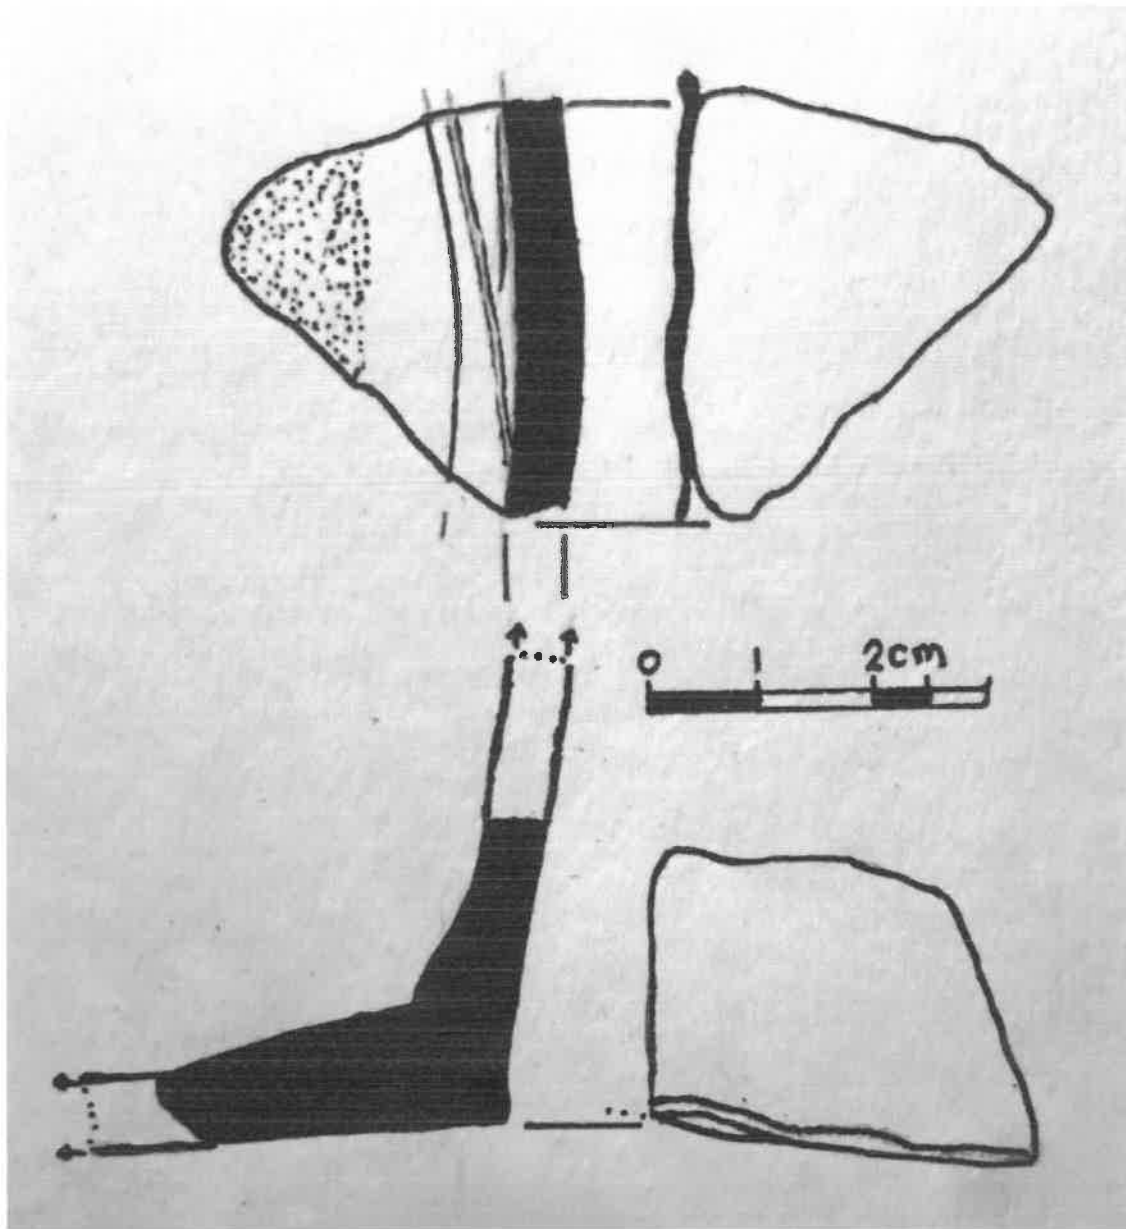

The artefact was retained.

Karl-James Langford FSAScot, MLitt
Archaeology Cymru

Recording made on 3rd April 2023

1 Canon Street
Barry Vale of Glamorgan
CF62 7BB
07437 747402

Pottery St. Ina, Ceredigion

View of interior with finger mark baluster

Cross section, profile

View of interior