

Sandy Haven Burnt Mound

Found at low tide mid way up Sandy Haven just south of the old trackways leading up either side of the valley on 6 September 2014. GPS grid ref SM 85757/07967

Mound approx. 0.3m high above surrounding level. Sand with cracked and heat affected stones, a few appear to have been almost molten so possibly indicating ore roasting maybe rather than a burnt mound. Thought not to have been visible a year ago at low tide (didn't notice it then) or on previous stays each summer, but wasn't looking for it see photos. (Trevor in photos nearly 6 feet tall). Diameter not measured as no tape (or scale at the time).
