Dear Laura,

Thank you for consulting us on the Sands of LIFE project proposals at Pembrey Burrows and Pendine. As regional archaeological curators the Heritage Management teams at Dyfed (DAT-HM) provide information, advice and assistance in understanding, appreciating and managing the historic environment and we welcome the opportunity to provide information at the earliest opportunity to include in your plans.

The Welsh archaeological trusts hold the regional Historic Environment Records (HER) which contain information on all known sites and artefacts of archaeological and/or historical interest ranging in date from the earliest known human habitation up to the end of the Cold War. It also contains information on archaeological work carried out. The HER is a dynamic record and is updated constantly when new information becomes available.

Pembrey Burrows; I have completed a screening on the consultation area you have supplied.

The following advice is in reference to the area beyond that which has been subject to the planning application S/40799. This screening therefore does not supersede the advice of the planning authority.

The consultation area includes the following records:

PRN	Period	Type	NGR
31394	POST MEDIEVAL	Wreck	SS 41749924

The Royal Commission on Ancient and Historic Monuments have also the following records:

NPRN	386	Wreck	SS4119099237
NPRN	273739	Wreck	SS4119099237

The exact location and extent of these sites is not known and the wreckage may extend over a large area. Non-ground intrusive activities such as fencing, scrub clearance (non-ground intrusive) and mowing, should not be of concern. However, further ground intrusive activities in the area, beyond that which is subject to the planning application S/40799, will require further archaeological consultation. Please contact DAT-HM to discuss providing details on the nature and extent of the proposed works.

This much wider area of consultation has a range of sites recorded from prehistoric shell middens, to the later use of the site as a military testing establishment. This later phase of use has not yet been fully archaeologically assessed.

Again, non-ground intrusive activities such as fencing, scrub clearance (non-ground intrusive) and mowing, should not be of concern. However, further ground intrusive activities in the area, will require further archaeological consultation.

Please contact DAT-HM to discuss, providing details on the nature and extent of the proposed works.

If you wish to discuss these comments further please do not hesitate to get in touch.

With best wishes
 Alice
