In addition, a minimum buffer of 10 metres of native broadleaf planting should be implemented beyond the clear space. This will help conserve the visual setting of the settlement and ensure its prominence in the landscape remains undisturbed. 2. PRN 130844 – Prehistoric Round Barrow/Cairn (SN7360653740): This barrow is a fine example of prehistoric burial mounds, purposefully sited on a high point in the landscape to offer uninterrupted views. Preserving its visual and physical context is crucial to maintaining its historical significance. Recommended Buffer: A clear space of 20 metres should be maintained around the barrow to preserve the views and the prominence of the site in the landscape. A minimum buffer of 10 metres of native broadleaf planting should be established beyond the clear space. This will help maintain the barrow's visual setting while offering some protection to its immediate surroundings. 3. PRN 130846 – Prehistoric Possible Standing Stone (SN7374853963): This possible standing stone is an intentionally placed prehistoric feature that plays an important role in the historic landscape. Maintaining its visibility and context is important for its preservation. Recommended Buffer:
